The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE XL.-MONTANA

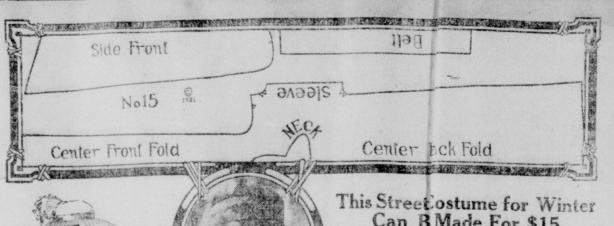

THE men-Montana history immediately brings to mind the Custer Massacre as one in Indian warfare. It occurred in 1876, the Centennial year, when special emphasis was being laid on the cause of peace throughout the world. The Sioux Indians had been driven into Montana by the gold miners, and the United States government took steps to force them back into their reservations. General Custer, with less than 300 men, set out to round up the tribes which were on the warpath, and at the Little Bighorn river, was ambushed by Sitting Bull and 3,000 warriors. Custer and all his troopers were killed. Soon after this massacre the Indians were defeated and many of them fled to Canada. Gold was discovered in Montana as early as 1852 by the halfbreed Francois Finlay near Hell Gate river. This, however, created little stir and it wasn't until five years later when John Silverthorn discovered gold in quantities, that mining settlements sprang up in the mountains. This region had been part of Nebraska territory, which in 1863 was subdivided and became a portion of Idaho territory. The next year it was organized as the separate Territory of Mon-

Virginia City was the capital and here in 1865 was issued the Montana Post, the first newspaper of the state. In 1874 the capital was changed to Helena and ten years later a state constitution was adopted. The state was not taken into the Union, however, until 1889.

Montana comes from the Spanish adjective meaning "mountalnous." Its area is 146,996 square miles, making it the third largest state of the Union. (6) by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The new street costume, a compromise been the ordinary coat and suit, is to me the most becoming garb for early inter. And not for early winter, alone, for it can be nicely worn under fur coat when the coldest days set in. It can be made in serge, tricotine uvetyn or satin. I made mine in soft light brown duvetyn with fringes ofack.

The making is very simple and by carefulfollowing the pattern there ought to be no trouble. The simple tailoredies of this dress are very effective, especially for the person of slim build.

The center front and back of pattern ared on the lengthwise fold. Cut the two side pieces and set into the notched ts, thus forming the entire gown. The belt is cut in one piece. The bead running around the bottom of the skirt is graduated until it is even with the b of the skirt at the bottom.

The material required is three yards, 42 irs wide.

I shall be glad to answer any questions thany come up in the making. Address me at Cosmopolitan Productions, 127 treet, New York City.

DENVER AGENT URGES FARMERS TO RAISE CLOVER

M. B. Oates Says Soil In This Vicinity Is Particularly Adapted To Crop-Can Convert Waste Land Into Good Pasturing Space - Gives Directions For Seeding.

A communication to The Record from M. B. Oates, agricultural agent for the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad, out lines the value of sweet clover to the average farm, and encourages sowing this hardy crop. Farmers everywhere are becoming interested in this product, says the expert, and soil along the Denver appears to be particularly adapted for it. Following is the text of Mr. Oates' mesage :

White flowered sweet clover grows wild in all counties between Fort Worth and Texline which shows its wide that it thrives in hard soil and in waste | Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley rested in state, places; also that it can make its way even when growing among all kinds of weeds and grass. Sweet clover is also resistent to drought else it could not thrive in such places as it is often

Many farmers have been watching MRS, J. JACKSON DESCRIBES ARthese wild growths for the last year or two and a few have been experimenting with it in a small way. These observations and experiments have created genuine interest and farmers all along the Denver road counties are planning to make a seeding of sweet clover this winter.

Makes Good Grazing Land.

The hardy habits of sweet clover have caused farmers to realize the possibilities of getting it established on rough pasture land or in waste places, thus converting much unprofitable land into good grazing that will return a

Sweet clover will probably prove more profitable when used as a pasture crop than when used as a hay crop. However sweet clover hay is almost equal to alfalfa hay in feeding value, and it will grow on many farms where alfalfa will not grow.

Many good stands of sweet clover have resulted from seed being scattered on top of hard ground along road sides. Seed have been blown into pastures from nearby fields and there set tled into the ground, germinated and grew. This is mentioned to show that sweet clover seems to thrive on a hard seed bed. On the other hand many farmers have carefully prepared a loose seed bed and had very poor results in getting a good stand. Often times they

Keep Ground Compact

50, If one contemplates seeding sweet clover on cultivated land it should be prepared in such a way as to keep the soil as compact as possible or in the case of loose or sandy soil some means hould be used to settle the ground as thoroughly as possible. Perhaps disking shallow and rolling would do this best. For pasture land, a shallow disking would be all that is necessary. Then sow when there is plenty of moisture in the soil and cover as lightly as possible. The seed bed must be compact. This is essential.

Sweet clover seed are very hard and do not come up quickly unless they are thus permitting them to absorb moisture which hastens germination, Bet. dent Taft and Woodrow Wilson, all the seed, although they cost more per pound (about 8 to 12 cents.) The rate of seeding with scarified seed is about the largest gathering I have ever 10 to 12 pounds per acre. These will sell for 1 to 2 cents less per pound. For this reason winter seeding is better to see the lights, and words cannot exthan March or April seedings. Seed press their splender. An arch had should be sown in December or January. On the plains seeding may be postponed until February or even the ter of the arch was what was called the first of March.

One man at Memphis, Texas has already bought seed for forty acres. He has been experimenting with it for two years. . In Wise county many farmers are going to plant sweet clover. In Montague County several men will sow from ten to forty acres. Donley connty farmers are going to sew some. In Dallam county sweet clover grows so luxuriantly in a wild state that farmers have become interested and some will make a seeding this winter.

No doubt sweet clover will become a common crop within two or three years or as soon as it has proven its value as a pasture and a hay crop

XL.-MONTANA

THE men-Montana history immediately brings to mind the Custer Massacre as one of the most dramatic incidents in Indian warfare. It occurred in 1876, the Centennial year, when special emphasis was being laid on the cause of peace throughout the world. The Sioux Indians had been driven into Montana by the gold miners, and the United States government took steps to force them back into their reservations. General Custer, with less than 300 men, set out to round up the tribes which were on the warpath, and at the Little Bighorn river, was ambushed by Sitting Bull and 3,000 warriors. Custer and all his troopers were killed. Soon after this massacre the Indians were defeated and many of them fled to Canada.

Gold was discovered in Montana as early as 1852 by the halfbreed Francois Finlay near Hell Gate river. This, however, created little stir and it wasn't until five years later when John Silverthorn discovered gold in quantities, that mining settlements sprang up in the mountains. This region had been part of Nebraska territory, which in 1863 was subdivided and became a portion of Idaho territory. The next year it was organized as the separate Territory of Mon-

Virginia City was the capital and here in 1865 was issued the Montana Post, the first newspaper of the state. In 1874 the capital was changed to Helena and ten years later a state constitution was adopted. The state was not taken into the Union, however, until 1889.

Montana comes from the Spanish adjective meaning "mountaluous." Its area is 146,996 square miles, making it the third largest state of the Union.

It's alright to be steady, but if you are too steady you'll be standing still. It pays to circulate a little--you have to keep a-moving.

Also it is a pretty good plan to keep your money moving—keep it in circulation. If a merchant buys a lot of goods and just puts them on the shelf and leaves them there he won't make much. It's the goods that move that bring the profits. Your money is the same way. Make it move. Keep it turning. Put it in the bank where it can earn you something and keep it turning.

DENVER AGENT URGES FARMERS TO RAISE CLOVER

M. B. Oates Says Soil In This Vicinity Is Particularly Adapted To Crop-Can Convert Waste Land Into Good Pasturing Space - Gives Directions For Seeding.

A communication to The Record from M. B. Oates, agricultural agent for the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad, outlines the value of sweet clover to the average farm, and encourages sowing this hardy crop. Farmers everywhere are becoming interested in this product, says the expert, and soil along the Denver appears to be particularly adapted for it. Following is the text of Mr. Oates' mesage :

White flowered sweet clover grows wild in all counties between Fort Worth and Texline which shows its wide adaptation to varying climatic and soil conditions. These wild growths show that it thrives in hard soil and in waste | Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley rested in state. places; also that it can make its way even when growing among all kinds of weeds and grass. Sweet clover is also resistent to drought else it could not thrive in such places as it is often

Many farmers have been watching these wild growths for the last year or two and a few have been experiment ing with it in a small way. These ob servations and experiments have created genuine interest and farmers all along the Deuver road counties are planning to make a seeding of sweet clover this winter.

Makes Good Grazing Land.

The hardy habits of sweet clover have caused farmers to realize the possibilities of getting it established on rough pasture land or in waste places. thus converting much upprofitable land into good grazing that will return a

Sweet clover will probably prove more profitable when used as a pasture crop than when used as a hay crop. However sweet clover hay is almost count to alfalfa hay in feeding value, and it will grow on many farms where alfalfa will not grow.

Many good stands of sweet clover have resulted from seed being scattered on top of hard ground along road sides. Seed have been blown into pastures from nearby fields and there settled into the ground, germinated and grew. This is mentioned to show that sweet clover seems to thrive on a hard seed bed. On the other hand many farmers have carefully prepared a loose seed bed and had very poor results in getting a good stand. Often times they

Keep Ground Compact.

So, if one contemplates seeding sweet clover on cultivated land it should be prepared in such a way as to keep the soil as compact as possible or in the case of loose or sandy soil some means hould be used to settle the ground as thoroughly as possible. Perhaps disking shallow and rolling would do this best. For pasture land, a shallow disking would be all that is necessary. Then sow when there is plenty of mois ture in the soil and cover as lightly as possible. The seed bed must be compact. This is essential.

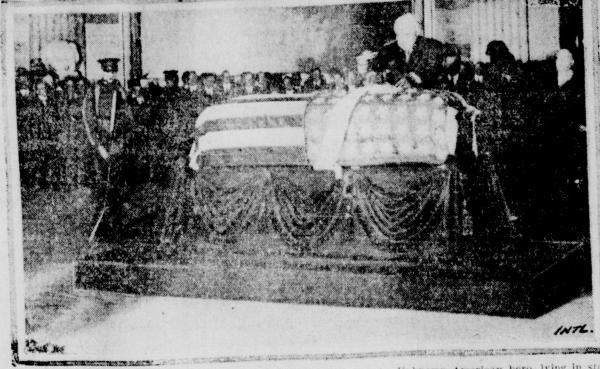

Sweet clover seed are very hard and do not come up quickly unless they are that have been mechanically scratched and it surely was wonderful. After so that the seed coat is roughened, thus permitting them to absorb moisture which hastens germination, Better stands result from using scarified seed, although they cost more per pound (about 8 to 12 cents.) The rate of seeding with scarified seed is about 10 to 12 pounds per acre. These will sell for 1 to 2 cents less per pound. Unhulled seed are still cheaper but it will take 18 to 20 pounds of seed per acre. They, of course, are not scarified.

Winter Seeding Best.

In nature sweet clover seed mature in the summer, full to the ground. gradually absorb moisture, freeze and thaw, then germinate early the next and freezing and thawing softens the hard seed coat and causes most of them to germinate the next spring. For this reason winter secting is better than March or April seedings. Seed should be sown in December or January. On the plains seeding may be postponed until February or even the first of March.

One man at Memphis, Texas has already bought seed for forty acres. He has been experimenting with it for two years. In Wise county many farmers are going to plant sweet clover. In Montague County several men will sow from ten to forty acres. Donley county farmers are going to sew some. In Dallam county sweet clover grows so luxuriantly in a wild state that farmers have become interested and some will make a seeding this winter

No doubt sweet clover will become a common cron within two or three years or as soon as it has proven its value CAPITAL PAYS ITS HOMAGE TO UNKNOWN DEAD

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE XL.-MONTANA

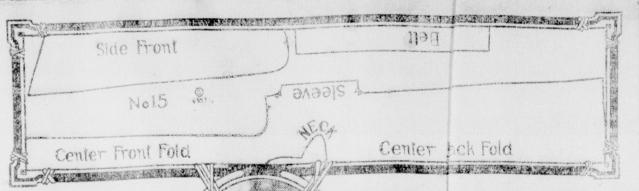

THE men-Montana history immediately brings to mind the of the most dramatic incidents in Indian warfare. It occurred in 1876, the Centennial year, when special emphasis was being laid on the cause of peace throughout the world. The Sioux Indians had been driven into Montana by the gold miners, and the United States government took steps to force them back into their reservations. General Custer, with less than 300 men, set out to round up the tribes which were on the warpath, and at the Little Bighorn river, was ambushed by Sitting Bull and 3,000 warriors. Custer and all his troopers were killed. Soon after this massacre the Indians were defeated and many of them fled to Canada. Gold was discovered in Montana as early as 1852 by the halfbreed François Fintay near Hell Gate river. This, however, created little stir and it wasn't until five years later when John Silverthorn discovered gold in quantities, that mining settlements sprang up in the mountains. This region had been part of Nebraska territory, which in 1863 was subdivided and became a portion of Idaho territory. The next year it was organized as the separate Territory of Mon-

Virginia City was the capital and here in 1865 was issued the Montana Post, the first newspaper of the state. In 1874 the capital was changed to Helena and ten years later a state constitution was adopted. The state was not taken into the Union, however, until 1989.

Montana comes from the Spansh adjective meaning "mountainous." Its area is 146,906 square miles, making it the third largest state of the Union. (by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Smart CostumeTrimmed in Fur Designed bylarion Davies. By ARION DAVIES, Screen Star of "T Restless Sex," "Buried Treasure," chantment," etc.

The new street costume, a compromise been the ordinary coat and suit, is to me the most becoming garb for early inter. And not for early winter, alone, for it can be nicely worn under fur coat when the coldest days set in. It can be made in serge, tricotine uvetyn or satin. I made mine in soft light brown duvetyn with fringes ofack.

The making is very simple and by careful ollowing the pattern there ought to be no trouble. The simple tailored es of this dress are very effective, especially for the person of slim build.

The center front and back of pattern areid on the lengthwise fold. Cut the two side pieces and set into the notched ts, thus forming the entire gown. The belt is cut in one piece. The beaditunning around the bottom of the skirt is graduated until it is even with the b of the skirt at the bottom.

The material required is three yards, 42 hts wide.

I shall be glad to answer any questions the ay come up in the making. Address me at Cosmopolitan Productions, 127 treet, New York City.

Be Steady -- but!

It's alright to be steady, but if you are too steady you'll be standing still. It pays to circulate a little—you have to keep a-moving.

Also it is a pretty good plan to keep your money moving-keep it in circulation. If a merchant buys a lot of goods and just puts them on the shelf and leaves them there he won't make much. It's the goods that move that bring the profits. Your money is the same way. Make it move. Keep it turning. Put it in the bank where it can earn you something and keep it turning.

Sweet clover will probably prove more profitable when used as a pasture crop than when used as a hay crop. However sweet clover hay is atmost equal to alfalfa hay in feeding value, and it will grow on many farms where alfalfa will not grow.

Many good stands of sweet clover have resulted from seed being scattered on top of hard ground along road dier. There was a line about one-half sides. Seed have been blown into pastures from nearby fields and there settled into the ground, germinated and grew. This is mentioned to show that sweet clover seems to thrive on a hard seed bed. On the other hand many getting a good stand. Often times they

Keep Ground Compact.

So, if one contemplates seeding sweet clover on cultivated land it should be prepared in such a way as to keep the soil as compact as possible or in the case of loose or sandy soil some means hould be used to settle the ground as thoroughly as possible. Perhaps disking shallow and rolling would do this best. For pasture land, a shallow disking would be all that is necessary. Then sow when there is plenty of moisture in the soil and cover as lightly as possible. The seed bed must be compact. This is essential.

Sweet clover seed are very hard and do not come up quickly unless they are that have been mechanically scratched and it surely was wonderful. After so that the seed coat is roughened, ture which hastens germination. Bet- dent Taft and Woodrow Wilson, all the thus permitting them to absorb moister stands result from using scarified seed, although they cost more per pound (about 8 to 12 cents.) The rate of seeding with scarified seed is about 10 to 12 pounds per acre. These will sell for 1 to 2 cents less per pound. Unbulled seed are still cheaper but it will take 18 to 20 pounds of seed per acre. They, of course, are not

In Dallam county sweet clover grows so luxuriantly in a wild state that farmers have become interested and some
